Charles Lowe Collection

consists almost entirely of personal health information of patients, we are still maintaining meticulous records over nearly four decades of practice, detailing the medical history, demographics, perinatal, and postnatal information of pregnant women (often by name).

RECENT ARCHIVAL ACQUISITIONS

Happy spring to all friends of Vanderbilt's History of Medicine Collections. We've recently added several items to our digital collections, located on the third floor of the Eskind Biomedical Library and Learning Center. Visits by appointment. Our research hours are 9–5 Monday through Friday. We're happy to curate exhibits as well as to answer questions about our collections, whether for research or class visits, or to ask about our collection policies. Please contact historyofmedicine@vanderbilt.edu to make appointments for research or class visits, or to ask about our collection policies.

NEW DIGITAL RESOURCES

NEW BOOKS

THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE COLLECTIONS

SERVICES

All researchers must register. We use the same registration system as Vanderbilt Special Collections, so if you've already registered, you do not need to register twice. Vanderbilt by Dr. Lowe's colleague, Dr. Robert Bone. Because the collection

NEW DIGITAL RESOURCES

Our digital image site has a software update and a new look, but the URL is the same and you can still add your own images.